VAN LOON,

The Murderer and Bank Robber, Threatens With Hell Fire

The Jury That Convicted Him of the Above Crimes, at Ottawa, O.

Judge Handy Sentences Him to Be Hanged on the Second Day of Next November, While His Faithful Wife Is Home Away Mourning and Crying.

OTTAWA, O., May 6.—The arguments were made Thursday on the motion for a new trial in the case of Frank Van Loon, who was found guilty of the murder of William Vandemark and the robbery of the Exchange bank at Coldwater Grove, O., on the 2d of last August.

The grounds upon which the motion was made were that the verdict was contrary to the evidence; misconduct of the counsel for the state in presenting the case to the jury, and that one of the jury was influenced by the state's man, Senator Hill. Sutton argued the case very ably on behalf of the prisoner, and consumed over three hours in delivering his speech. Prosecutor Charles Free and Hon. A. W. Watts represented the state.

Van Loon took a recess at two o'clock, and half an hour later convened to hear Judge Handy's decision. All during the argument the prisoner, his wife and child were in the court room. Before giving his decision, the judge requested Sheriff to remove Frank Van Loon to retire. She did not wish to do so, and it took nearly ten minutes of persuasion before she would consent to leave the room. She knew the awful tidings that were coming, and moaned and cried as she gathered her child to her breast and left the room. When the decision was made, Judge Handy delivered his opinion, in which he overruled the motion, then asked the prisoner if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. The prisoner sat for a moment as if collecting himself, and then answered, "I am innocent, I am an innocent man, and witnessess have sworn falsely against me. I would be willing to swear on the Bible, knowing it was in the presence of the Almighty God, and I would be liable to be sent to eternal punishment if I failed to tell the truth. I will go with uplifted hands." Here the prisoner raised both hands above his head, "that I am an innocent man. The jury that convicted me is in danger of fire unless the court will set aside the verdict and have me tried on the awful responsibility I give them. I am willing to die if the law demands my life for the murder of Mr. Vandemark. I did not go on the stand as a witness in my own behalf, nor did my wife. The Lord knows I would not have done so. I have saved my own life, I hope the Lord will save my wife's life, and the jury which wrongfully found me guilty and the witnesses who swore my life away; that is all I have to say."

Van Loon spoke in a rambling sort of way, and some of his answers were inaudible and could not be heard by the spectators near him. Judge Handy then pronounced the death sentence on him, the prisoner to be hanged by the neck until dead on the second day of next November. The prisoner was not unmoved though he was prepared to die. On the side of a death-like expression on his face, nothing unusual was noticed in his appearance. The prisoner was then escorted to the jail to await transportation to the annex. Senator Sutton will probably appeal the case to the circuit court.

OH, INDEED.

Deeming Confined That He Committed Murder, But Says He Remembers Nothing of It.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 6.—Deeming, the wife murderer, has become very much downcast during the past twenty-four hours. He has abandoned all attempts at cheerfulness, and appears to place but little reliance in an appeal to the judicial committee of the privy council awaiting the facts stored for him. He admits that he is accused of having committed the murder, but still insists that he committed the murder, but still insists that he does not remember any of the incidents that led to the killing or of the killing itself. He expresses no regret at the manner of his confinement, and appears to be in a state of repose. He declines to let the jail chaplain or any other clergymen. The biography which Deeming is writing details at length with the killing of Mrs. Deeming, the four children at Railhead, the portion of the jail, which he says, the manuscript, says, that the story is written in an incoherent way. It is believed that after Deeming is executed experts will be allowed to examine his brain in order to determine the question of his sanity.

The lovers while in this city went to the base ball park, where a method of settling who should withdraw from the matrimonial race suggested itself to them. They agreed to abide by the result to the result of the dispute in the diamond, and each backed his judgment by the selection of a club. All this was done in order to enable the company to pay dividends to the stockholders of the leased roads. Our new town authorities, locally known as "the Mt. Olivet Legislature," seem to have as many eyes as Argus, not the slightest offense escaping their notice, and are determined to make this a Utopia in deed and in truth. At their last session about fifty laws were enacted, embracing offenses of every shade and degree, and one must walk very circumspectly indeed if he would not have his dollars make their way into the city coffers.

On Tuesday an old gentleman from somewhere, no one seemed to know exactly, was seen with affixed to "that tired feeling." He was taken care of by the town Marshal. The fine and costs amounted up to $7. Immediately thereafter the County Attorney took him in tow, thinking to find out from whom he had bought his whisky. He knocked them out by saying he got drunk on cider, purchased from J. T. Woodward, whereupon Mr. Woodward has been arrested for violating the law. The cause is set for Friday and Woodward is one of our most reputable and best citizens, and the charge strikes most people as ridiculous.

Perhaps nothing that has ever been attempted of like nature in Mt. Olivet promises so lasting and favorable results than what is known as the "King Konversation Klub," under the charge of Mrs. Judge Deming. Each Friday evening since January about thirty young girls and boys have assembled and listened to the reading of and comments upon such authors as Longfellow, Tennyson, Irving, and historical literature. Following the reading comes an hour's conversation on what has been read; and you now see some of the older boys and girls not feel at home with them when conversation takes a literary turn.

We Must Have Money!

We must have FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, no matter how great the loss. Circumstances beyond our control compel us to raise this money; hence our great reduction sale. Every day our sales have shown all we asked since the commencement of our big cut in order to double our former sales. We sold twice the quantity of goods we had ever sold before during the same time, but did not take in a corresponding amount of money. Anyone can see that 1,000 uts worth $15 each, were sold at their actual value, will amount to $15,000; but when they are sold at $7 50 a suit, as the case has been with us, the money in drawer only counts up half as much. This ratio of actual value of goods sold and the amount of cash received was universal throughout the store. Men's, Boys' and Children's Suits, Hats, Underwear, &c., &c., &c., all sold for prices far less than their intrinsic value.

THIS MONTH BARGAINS WILL BE BETTER

We know full well that the season has been backward; that money is scarce and that times are hard. We also know that we must turn our stock into cash. We know that to do so we must offer extraordinary inducements in prices. This we have done, and persons who will come to our store during this the second month of this unprecedented, unparalleled and unexpected forced sale of fine goods, can realize from the quality and low prices how great is the necessity for us to turn our merchandise into money.

Thanking you for past favors and urging all to take advantage of this rare opportunity, we are, respectfully,

Jno. T. Martin & Co., The Old Reliable Red Corner Clothing House.
